A note from Slithigarriett...

Dear Thermadillion,

I bring you glad tidings! Our long-dreamt day has finally arrived. We have found it!

Those adventurers that I laid a Geas upon have finally done completed their task, and after many months probing the slopes of the Flametooth Mountains, they have found the entrance we have long sought. We have it! We have found the entrance to the Hellsmaw!

Once I gather a few supplies I will teleport at once, and we will finally see if our desire lays behind those ancient, alien doors. I will send daily messages via my Astral Sparrow so that you will be able to read my accounts of what I have seen. You should also be able to see some images I cast into the sparrow's eyes. Look to your window tomorrow for my sparrow, and remember he prefers crushed rubies for his payment.

I cannot believe it has been 8 long years since we lost our beloved sister Amarel. Perhaps, very soon, we shall see her again.

Your devoted brother,

Slithigarriett

Alas poor Amarel, we knew her well, to hear that we may see her again is such glad tidings, we await the sparrow and are busy putting our aprentices to work, crushing rubies in the mortar.

(So... My guess is some new set with pictures tommorrow??)

.....and in the remains of his charred and mangled hands, the Ivory bone case, half melted contained but a partial message:

My Lord, urgent tidings.....I fear a terrible portal has been breached...god help us all.....

_____

My guess, the set that they hinted at that is beyond the Den of Evil.

Good sir, Slithigarriett

At what time should we be expecting your Astral Sparrow to be at window tomorrow?

I sat at my desk thinking I will put a post online tonight asking when we will get an update. Low and behold an update appears. Although this looks like teh results of a divination spell I am ok with it. Time to start putting the cash ola beans together.
