Not necessarily (SP? :lol: ) all combat, How bout': Mundane 'Bots

1) Maintenance Robots: Huminoid & Boxy.

2) Data-bots. Large box-like things.

Anybody remember the WAR-BOTS set from Greniader Minis???

Those are great. ;)

Forgive me, I didn't read the whole thread but I think you're all looking for some good sci-fi minis and accessories? Try I-kore.com, they've got a great series of Sci-Fi miniatures called Void.

It is a bad idea to ask Dwarven Forge to produce Sci-Fi minis, since the market is even smaller than the fantasy ones.

That void stuff is nice but it's all wargame stuff not RPG. We need Techs, spaceport bums, Sci-fi adventures, stuff like the old Traveler sets had.

or as I posted above a DF set that did fairly generic "monsters" for fantasy and Sci-Fi. (Giant worms, ameba creatures, giant Insectoids)

I don't need combat tanks. But "more" normal lifts and Grav-cars.

My begging is not really working. But I try.... ;)

Maybe send Jeff Martin some Bribe Money. (looks in wallet) Lets see a bribe of $ 4.24 might get me..... :rolleyes:

Sort of like Techs...

Spaceport Bums... (sans weapons, maybe?)

<http://www.i-kore.com/acatalog/11417.jpg>

and Sci-fi Adventurers?

And robots...

<http://www.i-kore.com/acatalog/11323.jpg>

and chicks with wings? *shrug*

<http://www.i-kore.com/acatalog/31407.jpg>

Not to mention vehicles and junk and the hundreds of other very individual minis! :P

I actually use some of the different army packs for various security and military groups when I'm running my Star Wars Knights of the Old Republic campaign. The Synthra make great Sith soldiers, and they look a lot more intimidating than Storm Troopers.
