A link in the blue bar at the top of the page to take us to www.dwarvenforge.com (the main page) would be helpful to me, especially since I could right-click a new window while maintaining my current forum window. A second pull-down at the bottom of the page allowing us to jump to various areas in the commercial website would be ideal, but might be more complicated to program than it is worth.

HEAR, HEAR!!!

C'mon, Jeff; get your brother back to work on it. A return link like that would be excellent!

See ya in Indy!

Weellll... since suggestions are up in the air and being answered so quickly, how about another one

Is there a way to make the links to the Forum and Photos section BIGGER on the main www.dwarvenforge.com webpage? As it is, they're in small front at the very top of the page that is easy to look over in the hurry to get to the "good stuff" (ie. product, etc). I think the Cool Photos section of the Forum really cinches people when they see what can be done w/ DF and is a probably one of the largest drawing points (as well as FREE ADVERTISING!)
