

Updated web site 03/15/2006

Posted by weaverjk - 2006/03/15 21:09

---

Questions, comments, suggestions regarding the format of the web site as it was updated on 03/15/2006:

(Please keep in mind, I'm not trying to knock the web site, just attempting to ensure my orders are being accurately recorded and processed. Thanks!)

- 1) It would be nice to see the Out Of Stock information on the main web pages instead of having to wait until you click on each individual item.
- 2) Sometimes, when clicking on an item to be in stock in June, I noticed that the only place on the details page that said that was the tiny red strip above the item where the item number is - this was hard to spot at first. I'd recommend moving it lower if possible and making it stand out more somehow.
- 3) I noticed that the 6x6 floor tiles were not pre-orderable today (although the newsletter indicated that they would be). Is this an error?
- 4) Last night, both the cavern floor and walls were out of stock. Today, the site is letting me order many floor sets and only 1 wall. Is this another error(s)?

The new sets look awesome and very versatile. I look forward to their arrival.

Thanks for the response,
John
JKW

=====

Updated web site 03/15/2006

Posted by Wereweasel - 2006/05/09 02:21

---

I really like the look of the new site.

That being said, there is one new/(old?) feature that I would like to see added.

If I remember correctly, I thought we could view past and current newsletters if logged in.

Is this possible? I ask this as I don't always receive the newsletter.

It would be nice to be able to view the most recent newsletter should (for whatever reason) a subscriber not receive/retrieve their copy.

=====