DragonCON
Posted by Thor - 2004/04/28 09:45

DragonCon is coming!!! (Atlanta Georgia)

Anybody from this site going?

Is Dwarven Forge going to have a booth?

Will Amanda cheat on Chuck while he is in the hospital after sleeping with Rosanne who already slept with Amanda's father's mother!!!!

Only ime will tell..... :lol:

==========

DragonCON
Posted by YorkusRex - 2004/04/30 08:51

I hope to be there running a HM tournament.

I really hope Dwarven Forge does have a booth because I am dying to see some of that new sci-fi terrain up close! 8)

==========

DragonCON
Posted by Thor - 2004/04/30 13:11

HM ? Hack-Master?

What is that anyway I've been seeing their stuff. I thought it was a parady at first. :oops:

==========

DragonCON
Posted by TheDungeonDelver - 2004/04/30 16:49

HM ? Hack-Master?

What is that anyway I've been seeing their stuff. I thought it was a parady at first. :oops:

HackMaster is a WotC-licensed "parody" of 1e/2e AD&D which "humorously" "sends up" classic modules, campaigns and rules.

"Oh look, a complex rule! Why, this is just ripe for skewering!"

The only folks laughing are Kenzer and Company, all the way to the bank...

==========

DragonCON
Posted by MrMorden - 2004/05/02 20:23

_____

I'll definitely be at DragonCon. If anybody wants to get a pick-up game going, I'd be up for it! If we each bring a couple of sets of DF we can have a nice big setup to play in! :twisted:

==========

DragonCON
Posted by YorkusRex - 2004/05/03 09:27

_____

The only folks laughing are Kenzer and Company, all the way to the bank...

Not true.

There are four sanctioned groups in the Chattanooga area (three running out of the local game store) with about 20 players total. Everyone enjoys the game and it is the #1 selling RPG at the store.

The game is 1e with elements of 2e added in and some new rule mechanics including a percentile based skill system, rules for honor, new races, etc.

There are humorous elements added in and name dropping references to the KoDT material but they don't really affect the game and can be dropped or renamed. The rules are as complex as you want them to be and elements are easily ignored allowing the game to be fully playable.

If more people would try it instead of summarily dismissing it as a "joke", I think they would be surprised at the what a good game it can be.

==========

DragonCON
Posted by admin - 2004/05/03 09:58

_____

We will only be at Origins and Gen Con Indy. Sorry...we are holding the line on expenses to maxmize our product development.

==========

DragonCON

Posted by Thor - 2004/05/03 11:33

_____

If "maximize product development" means "Making cool new pieces" then we want you to stay put. :D

In fact could you please stop eating lunch and work harder?. Maybe work weekends and holidays?

I want no vacations til I get my Water sets!!!!

(BIG GRIN)

P.S. We hard cores will "pass the DF word" with out you. ;)

==========

DragonCON

Posted by YorkusRex - 2004/05/03 11:59

_____

We will only be at Origins and Gen Con Indy. Sorry...we are holding the line on expenses to maxmize our product development.

I've went from sad to happy all in the course of two sentences... ;)

Hopefully the local shop will get some of the sci-fi terrain in for display/play purposes. I'm dying to see it up close.

Will anyone be running any games at Dragon*Con using their own personal stuff? I'd love to drop by and see some cool layouts.

==========

DragonCON

Posted by TheDungeonDelver - 2004/05/03 22:01

_____

We will only be at Origins and Gen Con Indy. Sorry...we are holding the line on expenses to maxmize our product development.

As far as I'm concerned, if you guys all rent a one room apartment and steal yesterday's paper to make with the cool dungeons, then do it! :)

==========

DragonCON

Posted by MyLordVoid - 2004/06/01 14:37

_____

I Really Wish I Could Make Dragon this Year... But I Do not think So... BUT Next year is a Different Story, so if You Folks Do Meet Up and do some Talking about Future Plans Let me Know...

==========

DragonCON
Posted by brvheart - 2004/06/03 23:02

_____

Be nice to win the lottery and spend the year going from con to con. As it is I make Gencon about once every five years now.

==========

DragonCON
Posted by MyLordVoid - 2004/06/05 14:37

_____

Update: It Looks Like I am Likely Going to Dragon After ALL!!! Woo Hoo... So Where Shall we Meet? Duh... The Bar at the Hilton of Course... But When? Should we Make Silly Shirts to Wear? "Forge Forum Anonymous" or Something?.....

==========