What in the heck are those red discs????? :shock:

Today in the News:

Kobalds attack Castle Pizzia Party!!!!

Whoops, forgot to mention them. The red discs are blood spots - they mark where monsters have been killed. That way we can indicate where all the corpses are without knocking over the miniatures (our painter hates it when that happens).

Thats a great idea, and you can use real minis for live things. I have that Knord kegbreaker mini as well, painted totally different.

As Much as I LOVE DF when it Comes to Price MK does a Fine Job on some Accessories... (Have a Couple of Each... Even One of the Hero Clix ones for the Kewl 60's-esque Computer)... 6 of those Rubber Tables is enough to nicely Populate most Taverns... I Use Some of the Hero Quest Stuff too like the Lab Table, and the Rack...

From an eBay seller named Studio One LLC. In fact, they have some on sale now at this auction.

You should be able to pick up red discs like that from a dollar store--they're just bingo chips.  Watch out how much you pay for something like that on ebay.
