GF9 Wall of fire Terrain acceessories

Posted by Harneloot - 2007/03/17 21:22

Hey all - just found this rather cool terrain piece and thought I'd share it:

http://www.gf9.com/store/index.php?cPath=28_41

Scroll down to the bottom and find the Game Accessories pack #10 - Wall of Fire. Made of 4 pieces of transparent acrylic (large red flame base, medium yellow flame, 2 small orange flames) that snap together to make a 5" long x 1" colorful wall of fire wide thats pretty darn cool :cool:

Nice enough for me to order a second pack, and to order 1 wall of ice and 1 wall of smoke. I got my original from e-bay for $7.69 and there's more to be had...

Enjoy!

==========

GF9 Wall of fire Terrain acceessories

Posted by Dante - 2007/03/18 19:45

These are cool--I was drooling over them last week in my FLGS. I already have the little fire markers from GF9 but really want to pick these up when I have some extra scratch.

==========

GF9 Wall of fire Terrain acceessories

Posted by Wereweasel - 2007/03/18 22:48

Thanks Harneloot

If my transparent "flames" project doesn't work the way I hope it will, I'll be grabbing me a couple sets of these for certain.

==========

GF9 Wall of fire Terrain acceessories

Posted by Aracon - 2007/03/18 22:57

Magnificent egos has a number of spell effects that look great when painted....

==========

GF9 Wall of fire Terrain acceessories
Posted by Wereweasel - 2007/03/18 23:39

_____

Aracon,

Do you collect metal or plastic minis, or both?

==========

GF9 Wall of fire Terrain acceessories
Posted by Ghostmage - 2007/03/19 17:31

_____

Hey thanks for the head's up on these ...not bad! I like the walls of Smoke and Fire. I'm going to try and get 2 sets of each.

I'm not too crazy about the Ice wall though, for some reason. I think I'd like to have seen that one designed a little differently. I'll probably still get one laughs...maybe it will look better in use. I'm in for the Smoke & Fire for sure! I could see that in my Den Of Evil.

Thanks again!

==========

GF9 Wall of fire Terrain acceessories
Posted by Harneloot - 2007/03/19 20:27

_____

;)

==========

GF9 Wall of fire Terrain acceessories
Posted by Dungeoneer - 2007/03/20 13:22

_____

These are cool and I want them, ...but do you know how much plasti-crack I can buy for that price.? Sorry, but the "MORE plasti-crack" side of my brain wins. :) Thanks for post'n this. It is on my "to buy" list.

==========

GF9 Wall of fire Terrain acceessories
Posted by Harneloot - 2007/03/20 16:19

_____

What can you really get for $7.69?

==========

GF9 Wall of fire Terrain acceessories

Posted by jackattack - 2007/03/20 18:06

_____

Enough candy to make you sick?

==========

GF9 Wall of fire Terrain acceessories

Posted by Aracon - 2007/03/21 00:23

_____

Wereweasel,

I have a fair share of both (5,000+ plastic DDM, 5,000+ painted metals, mounds of unpainted metals). I prefer painting metals when I can find the right sculpts. For example, my orcs & goblins are from Dragon Rune, my carrion crawlers from old Partha AD&D, my Owlbears from the old chainmail line, my giants (until Otherworlds giants arrive) from Reaper, my characters from multiple lines but my favorites are Dark Sword, and my Ankhegs, Aspects, and other plastic-only minis are from DDM. I use DDM as filler minis until I get alternate metals acquired and painted.

I'll post up some pics of last weekend when I get a chance, which shows s few encounters at our recent game marathon.

==========

GF9 Wall of fire Terrain acceessories

Posted by Wereweasel - 2007/03/21 00:57

_____

Aracon,

That's an amazing collection there!

Almost every single mini I have is metal (with fixed bases -no slots) so my total collection is closer to only 4000.

I may soon be asking for advise (in another thread) on where I may locate some unusual/obscure metal minis as you seemed to mention at least one name I didn't recognise.

Thanks.

Steve.

==========

GF9 Wall of fire Terrain acceessories

Posted by Aracon - 2007/03/25 21:00

_____

At our last game gathering, it took two cars and two vans to haul everything we might need, and I left behind all of my bigger pieces (dragon, demons, devils, tower, castle, etc).

I'd be happy to point out great mini lines. Most are obscure but highly recommended. For example lovers of the movie 300 will be very interested in Crocodile Games Spartan line due out next month (no Haneloot, they don't come painted, lol).

The trick with the metals is keeping them from breaking... I seem to spend more time glueing things back together and touching them up than I do painting new pieces nowadays...

==========

GF9 Wall of fire Terrain acceessories

Posted by Harneloot - 2007/03/26 03:27

_____

Howd your gaming weekend go? Any pictures you can post of the awesome cavernous river set-up you described?

==========

GF9 Wall of fire Terrain acceessories

Posted by Aracon - 2007/03/26 18:42

_____

Still working on getting the pics down the the board's 512K limit. The lighting wasn't the best during the event and the players kept complaining about the pretty photo shoots and that they wanted to be killin' more orcs instead of taking pretty pics, lol.

I'll definitely post up the adventure. The idol room didn't come out too well so I'll be staging that with a properly lighted setup.

==========

GF9 Wall of fire Terrain acceessories

Posted by Ghostmage - 2007/03/27 15:58

_____

Harneloot -- just so you know...my package arrived today and I was very impressed with these markers! You were right, these are very, very cool! I got the Fire, Cloud and Ice "walls" and also went with the smaller versions for Fire, Cloud, Ice and Poison. In my opinion, these look GREAT (even the Ice ones) and are really going to enhance gameplay and visuals in my DF set-ups.

Thanks again for the head's up on this! They are awesome!

~Cheers

==========

GF9 Wall of fire Terrain acceessories
Posted by Harneloot - 2007/03/27 21:38

_____

How do the smaller markers look? Worth getting as well? Can you give dimensions?

Thanks!

==========

GF9 Wall of fire Terrain acceessories
Posted by Ghostmage - 2007/03/28 00:22

_____

The smaller markers of Fire, Smoke, Ice and Poison really look great and are all about the same size -- just under 2 inches in diameter and 2 inches tall. They look cool in all of the DF set-ups (DOE, Cavern, M.B.S, etc). Beautiful color contrast, actually! I think someone mentioned earlier that they were pricey -- To me, they were worth the money. The walls really enhance the minis too: Demon behind Fire Walls; Ice Elemental behind Ice Walls; Dragon behind Smoke Walls...too cool to describe here!

The walls look sweet, for sure...but the smaller ones look just as good and are going to be very useful to show smaller fires, explosions, poison clouds, etc. I wish I had a digital camera! I highly recommend all of these!

Heh, get them while supplies last...you won't be sorry!

==========

GF9 Wall of fire Terrain acceessories
Posted by Dungeoneer - 2007/03/28 12:42

_____

What can you really get for $7.69?
At my FLAGS, I can raid the 100 yen plasti-crack box, and get quite a bit of OOP commons. So, to awnser your question, I can get about 8 minis for $7.69. Hehe, I just love gett'n cheap plasti-crack minis. I don't care if they are commons. :)

==========

GF9 Wall of fire Terrain acceessories
Posted by Harneloot - 2007/03/28 12:48

_____

Well, once you reach the 5000+ mini mark, that rush will wear off some ;)

Have tons of fun getting there though!!!
:D

==========

GF9 Wall of fire Terrain acceessories

Posted by Dungeoneer - 2007/03/28 12:55

_____

Well, once you reach the 5000+ mini mark, that rush will wear off some ;)

Have tons of fun getting there though!!!
:D
I haven't counted yet (afraid to do that. hehe), but I am about in the 1,000 range I think. I don't care, cuz you only live once. Anyway, back on the topic of this thread, Ghostmage, I am so jealous that you got these markers. It would be cool if you posted just a couple of pics with them next to some minis. Looks like really great stuff.

==========