Putting away the DOE
Posted by Harneloot - 2007/05/10 20:34

HELP!

After having all 3 DOE sets out for the contest for weeks and weeks I can't quite figure out how to replace the diagonal walls in the DOE R&P set - they don't seem to fit snugly in the one place that seems left for them to fit in....do they go there, kinda loose like, or can someone tell me where they SHOULD go?

==========

Putting away the DOE
Posted by LoneStarr - 2007/05/13 08:09

Hm, in my sets the diagonal wall and floor tiles are placed loosely in the approximately L-shaped part of the box where the 4-way section fits in, between the normal wall pieces and the passage pieces.

==========

Putting away the DOE
Posted by Harneloot - 2007/05/13 08:30

OK - that was the spot I had left for mine after putting everything else away - since they fit only loosely in there I couldn't remember if that was exactly where they were suppose to go...

Thanks!

==========

Putting away the DOE
Posted by Ghostmage - 2007/05/13 10:26

Yeah, we probably need to adopt some sort of numbering system between the actual pieces and the slots they come out of...hmmm

==========

Putting away the DOE
Posted by Myrthe - 2007/05/14 08:49

Or, try to remember to take a digital picture of the open box before you take everything out ... that sure helps to save a lot of my brain cells :D

==========

Putting away the DOE
Posted by Shadox - 2007/05/14 09:32

_____

Myrtle,

I am going to take digital pictures of all my boxes now. That is a great suggestion.

-Shadox

==========

Putting away the DOE
Posted by Ghenghis Ska - 2007/05/14 10:22

_____

Speaking of boxes... Myrthe finally got them.
Thanks!

==========

Putting away the DOE
Posted by Harneloot - 2007/05/14 12:11

_____

Yes - ggod idea on the picture!

Usually, I find it pretty intuitive - each things fits in only a limited number of places. However, the loose fit of those diaginal walls threw me....usually everything is nice and snug!

==========

Putting away the DOE
Posted by Myrthe - 2007/05/14 14:00

_____

Yeah, that was one of my "good breakfast" ideas ... it is the most imprtant meal of the day :D

Now if only I can remember where I leave my car keys at the end of the day !!!!

@ GS ... No problem, glad you could use them !! We'll get a game in one of these days !! Do you ever play at the shop? I haven't ... yet ... but I need some play time. All work and no play makes Mikey gnash his teeth and turn unnatural colors :D I'm desperate to embrace my inner child but I think I choked him the last time he came out to play ...

==========

Putting away the DOE

Posted by Ghenghis Ska - 2007/05/14 18:46

_____

Myrthe,

Yeah I am using them for some of my home made stuff, they will work quit well.

As to gaming at the Time MAchine, at least once a month, every 3rd Sat I try to run a Star Wars Minis thing... the reason I say try is cause i'm always there, but the turn out being called "variable" is being nice... which reminds me i have to rebuild some squads in case anyone shows this weekend, after i sorted all of my minis for that contest.

==========