Wow! That looks amazing!

I really love... well, just about all of it.

The narrow bridge is great, I love the rock plateau, and the chasms themselves look amazing. I have to go back and look at them again, to see if they look like giant hole floor pieces, or if they're modular, or what....

Fantastic, fantastic, fantastic, fantastic...

Me likey!

And... Ah-hah! I was trying to figure out what the indentation on the back of the rock stairs was for last night and couldn't figure it out for the life of me...

Love the bridge and the plateau looks good. I'm a little concerned on the chasms, but that's mainly just because it's hard to tell where the splits are (I'm sure Stefan has done his usual great job).

February huh? I don't suppose we'll see a Sci-Fi set at the same time? hope

Cool looking sets!! :)

Can't wait to pre-order as well, although, I'm gonna have to sneak that order past the wife. She's already grizzling about how we are going to store the current stash of DF stuff

The bridge adnd plateau pieces look amazing!! My only question is how strong would the bridge piece be, given a fairly thin piece of resin? :) Need to know how careful I hav to tell my blasted players to be lupus,

Park the car in the yard; stash the goodies in the garage.
If your garage is like most guy's garage's, she'll never notice! :lol:
IF that doesn't work, learn how to grovel.
Whimper.
Promise to do the dishes once a week.
Take her to the movies.
Babysit while SHE goes out with 'the girls' once a week.
Or, just rant 'n' rave; find something SHE does to grizzle about.

Whatever you do, good luck, guy!

looks really cool,
and is what i was really missing to make caverns look more "natural"

from the new items seen:

- Stalagmite Cluster, like this very much, seems to be really high model
- narrow bridge, cool that it doubles as bridge or as archway with the small stairs
- small stairs are a very cool thing, too
- cavernous column, i like this one and hope that there is another design
- stairs, hope that they are in this set, too cause if you want no water you'll end up with none of them
- plateau, seems nice
- chasms, i'm unsure about these but as usual they'll be useful and coll, too conclusion:

exactly what i was looking for (more than ice or something)

I'm in for 2 sets at least.

I really like the Chasm...
That bridge is nice, and possibly looks "expandable"... not 100% sure but it looks like the flat section just lays on top,...? If so that is a great thing you can put in long sections supported by the random pillar, or have gaps that the PCs must jump...
Please please be not a Nov preorder, all my cash is already gone due to Two WotC minis sets comming out...

Jim
Hehehe doesn't work. Don't have a garage, only a car port.....and no way am I leaving out there to the elements. THings might go missing!!!

Looks like its going to be one of the other options, even though I'm already doing the babysitting thing for this new set of stuff coming out now. I've been roped into looking after the little one when she heads off to a craft show :) Not sure why she can stock up on craft goodies while I have to work to get my df stuff!! But best not to argue....only brings more grief :P

But.....having seen the newsletter, looks like next year is going to be a big month. Must save now! Deal with storage issue later :P

Nice

Agree with all comments already posted - can't wait - will certainly put the pieces to great use.

Actually, looking over the pics, the pieces look a LOT more complex than at first glance.

Not only is that bridge section removeable, notice how many ways it's been placed in the pics. Notice how each time the setup seems slightly different. Looks like there will be lots of moveable rock formations that can fit with each other to create different sorts of arrangements. Very interesting. And the bridge piece looks like a great modular item to combine with any number of those arrangements....

GS, you must be talking about SW "Force Unleashed" ? Have you found any previews yet? More SWM, very very cool.

BTW,

Stefan, Jeff...

Thank you, thank you and THANK YOU!

For including a second type of "stairs" (apart from the one in the CLE Set).

Including that, (or those) will make a HUGE difference!!!

Steve.

Everything looks absolutely fantastic, but I do have a question.

I can't tell by looking at the picture whether the Chasm piece(s) are painted black, or open cut-outs set on top of a black surface...

Which is it?

From the October 4th Newsletter ...

"Other Items Coming in February

The final details have not yet been determined, but ....

More pre-order and set info will be announced at the end of October..."

Now, assuming you meant 'February 2008', that would lead one to believe an announcement was due October 2007 .... ;)

Please excuse the snarkiness ... just anxious for an update ... our DF hosts have been far too silent of late ...

I think I can speak for a good number of us when I say

"We need our Resin Porn !!!" :D

I'd probably take two at least. Maybe more depending what is in them and what not.

All my friends really like the Cavern set ups as is so...makes it where I want to get the Cavern stuff. Of course they still like the "Classic" (as I call it) Dungeon's. I really want more Narrow Passages. Should of kept bidding on the ones that were up on ebay a little while ago. It would of been nice to have three total of these sets.

Okay I am tired and rambling on so....yea defiantly two! (I am sure I miss spelled that..defiantly but...relying on spell check cause I have no clue!)
