Dwarven Forge - Dwarven Forge

Generated: 25 May, 2013, 15:16

Throadc	Markad	for New	Contont
Threads	iviarkeo	ior ivew	Comeni

Posted by jackattack - 2007/08/06 16:37

I don't know if this is a problem at my end, or something that can be addressed at DF's end.

When I log on I see some forums and threads marked with a blue box to indicate that posts have been added. But if add a post to a thread, the boxes disappear and I have to check the dates on each thread in each forum to see if there is still new content I haven't read.

Any thoughts on how this might be addressed, at either end?

_____

Threads Marked for New Content

Posted by Ghenghis Ska - 2007/08/06 16:52

Same thing used to happen to me untill i figured away around it. It was kinf of annoying to have to hunt up the new stuff after i posted.

The box disapearing i think has to do with the amount of time you are on an looking at stuff. If you are just nipping in and out it stays around (for me at least), or you do a quick post it stays around. But if you take the time to write a "long" one it goes away as you pass the time limit for the "new posts". So when you go back to the page it's not "new" anymore.

So what i usally do is just hit the "Show new posts since last visit" in the upper right hand of the board. Then when that page opens and shows me all the new stuff. I just open a new window from that list of posts, and go look at the ones i am curious to read. That way all the new stuff stays put in window/page untill i refresh or close it.

______

Threads Marked for New Content

Posted by Harneloot - 2007/08/06 17:01

_____

Use to happen to me when I used IE

Now I use Firefox and it doesn't happen anymore.

:D

______

Threads Marked for New Content

Posted by moderator - 2007/08/07 07:50

-

Dwarven Forge - Dwarven Forge Generated: 25 May, 2013, 15:16

I've had the same experience as Harneloot. Firefox seems to fix the problem. Perhaps Doug can suggest a fix for IE.
Threads Marked for New Content Posted by admin - 2007/08/07 09:58
Doug refuses to accept that IE even exists. He needs a 12-step program.
Threads Marked for New Content Posted by Doug Martin - 2007/08/07 10:54
Perhaps Doug can suggest a fix for IE. Delete it?
Threads Marked for New Content Posted by Dante - 2007/08/07 14:10
IE? Insane Exploitations? ::grin::
I like Doug's solution. heh heh
Threads Marked for New Content Posted by Shadox - 2007/08/08 07:03
IE = Interesting Errors
Threads Marked for New Content Posted by jkratzer - 2007/08/08 17:46
HEY!
I get excellent results with Internet Explorer 7; I have no idea why YOU GUYS can't! :lol: :lol: All ribbing aside, I know different strokes for different folks, and all that. But a lot of times, users are

2/3

Dwarven Forge - Dwarven Forge Generated: 25 May, 2013, 15:16

end-all that some people think it is; I seen some DOOZYs from that monster, too!
Jim
=======================================
Threads Marked for New Content Posted by jackattack - 2007/08/08 18:52
I use Netscape Navigator. Guess I should have said earlier
Threads Marked for New Content Posted by Harneloot - 2007/08/08 22:02
Seems you are the exception Jim
Threads Marked for New Content Posted by fiddy - 2007/08/09 06:13
Nah, Jim's not alone. I use IE7 all the time as well.

prone to blame M$ for problems that rightfully belong elsewhere. An-nd, Firefox is NOT the be-all,