The email says that the well of sin will never be offered again and then 2 sentences later it says available in 2010. Which is it? I am light on funds and would like to skate by with 2 sets but if I have to do 3 then so be it but just wanted to know.

I think it will be the same case as the other special offers, like the RotA entrance, where if they sell out now they're gone forever. If they don't run out of them then they'll offer the rest for sale in March.

This is correct. If there are any left on Nov. 1st we will hold them and sell them on March 1st, 2010. And once they are sold, they are gone forever.

I appreciate this approach because it rewards those who pony up the cash for three sets by giving them a bonus piece.
But it also gives people who dont have the cash at the moment to save up and get the piece down the road.
I, for one, will only be able to afford two sets at the moment (money going for game room!), so it's nice to know I'll have a crack at this piece early next year!

It also gives to euro csutomers more "new" sets to include into a package in march 2010.
Buying one set is a huge amount & blablabla (ou know our problem by heart) since there is still no euro distributor.

We are several on the french fan base who don't buy it.I lauched a grouped order but no one wants. Basically after our calculates, one set is about 190€ by this way. So no.
We wait for the following sets (4 maximum into a package) to get a reasonnable solution and may be the euro dsitributor....

However as always, If I win to euromillion lottery tonight DF will have a euro distributor immediately. ^^

All the international orders went out today. We will be sending out tracking numbers tonight and tomorrow.

Thanks for all your patience! International orders take much longer to process (and they must be taken to the post office) so the fulfillment center does them last. We are now finally caught up.

Thank you all for the great response and the patience.
