SCI-FI Singles?
Posted by LaPunir - 2004/10/29 18:25

Any plans to sell individual Sci-Fi pieces (like the fantasy lines) or is it too early to tell?

==========

SCI-FI Singles?
Posted by admin - 2004/11/01 09:29

Right now...we simply can't afford it with the high minimums required to place an order. I'll let you know via newsletter if we do.

==========

SCI-FI Singles?
Posted by Darth Xthoroth - 2005/01/09 04:00

Why not make them available as extras if say, you buy at least one or two sets? That way when people buy maybe a starter and an expansion they could order a few corners and cross-pieces. Just a thought.

==========

SCI-FI Singles?
Posted by MyLordVoid - 2005/01/09 06:56

Darth X,

I Like the Idea of "Rewards" for Big Purchases! I think that DF has taken the Position on Singles that It Costs too much to Manufacture/Package Individual Pieces for a reasonable Retail price, so they are affraid that if it were too Expensive people would not Buy enough stock to make it worth while... That having been said, I am Curious to see how Singles work out in the Future...

==========

SCI-FI Singles?
Posted by Ghenghis Ska - 2005/04/14 13:43

While Singles, as singles yeah may be too expensive, i know i just picked up a number of the Cavern bits, in the 4 packs becuase they are great, got short passage sections, and some dead ends, in four packs, as well as singles for the long 6 inch passages.

A four pack of doors, or the non corner non anglee walls would be really handy, heck a 4 pack of a 6inch wall, would be great....

The just three little wall bits in the sarter are not much to work with...

need more walls

==========

SCI-FI Singles?

Posted by brvheart - 2005/04/15 10:02

_____

Well it all goes back to the problem of having it all made in China. Too large of minimum orders, less quality control, too long of turn around time and more shipping charges. I still say it would be better in the long run to have them made in S. Illinois where you could control production. Sure, it would mean a higher per piece cost, but much lower inventories required and better quality control. I still am getting pieces that don't fit together and are from different ink lots.

==========

SCI-FI Singles?

Posted by Ghenghis Ska - 2005/04/15 10:31

_____

I understand, not complaining, too much, if the Beta Set would come out soon it would solve a number of my problems. They have more walls in that an have the 6 inch, as well as curved sets i really want with the Sci-Fi... just waiting, but i hate waiting, i could wait better when i wasn't using it almsot every week, now i am and i think, man i wish i could to this with the set up... but don't have the parts i need.

==========

SCI-FI Singles?

Posted by MyLordVoid - 2005/04/16 15:34

_____

I Have Often Said this,

But I Would Really Enjoy Limited Release Figures... One or Two Released with Specific Sets... You Know The Nascar Set Gets a Driver and Some Annonymous Pit Crew Person..... While The Tavern/Bar Sets Comes with Th Patron or Matron of the Place and Maybe a Serving Wench in Addition to all of the Kewl Scenary...

==========