Rooftop?
Posted by pjrake - 2010/06/09 10:39

Hi. Does anybody know where I can purchase the rooftop DF used in their Medieval set piece? It looks awesome and I would like to use it on my next game.

Thanks!

-PJ
http://www.dwarvenforge.com/images/fbfiles/images/rooftop.jpg

==========

Re:Rooftop?
Posted by Shadbelly - 2010/06/09 10:48

The French connection has some here:
http://www.dwarvenforge.info/toits/toits.htm

==========

Re:Rooftop?
Posted by DM-GHOST - 2010/06/09 17:23

There are a few other options that dont look as good but still make decent rooftops. I Use a combination of things myself. You could go for the Flat roof Tiles from D&D Dungon tiles. form the Streets of Shadow set. but you only get 3 Rooftops per set. secondly you might want to look around at some sites like Fat dragon games if you have a high quality Printer and papper and crank out some REALY cool cheep papper roof tops. (this is the route i went) they look very good and do the job well. If you like could probably throw a few together and show ya some immages. But by far the site that was linked is the best for rooftops. But like DF they are not cheep and will be shiped to you from overseas.. ouch !

==========

Re:Rooftop?
Posted by Shadbelly - 2010/06/09 19:01

I would love to see some pics of fat dragon games roofs used with df. I think that's an awesome idea.

==========

Re:Rooftop?

Posted by crioux - 2010/06/10 13:18

_____

You can also make your own using Hirst Art plaster casting

==========