Well... Awesome NEW Idea... Again from GenCon

Looks like DF is doing an elven/woodland set...

Talked with Sandra for a little bit, and she talked about how she wants it to look like the walls are made out of plants or trees, not just covered in them.

Should be interesting!

since i'm not a great fan of elven thingies i thought i would give the set an eventual pass.

But seeing the modeling here i must say, looks to become very good (and not outdoors thats great).

If it goes this way i will pickup at least one for collectors sake.

(please consider that i'm an elven evironment hater,
i don't like this plant stuff / treehouses at all,
i dig environments made of clear big stones (RotA is my favorite) or made from hard steel (sci-fi all the way).

Amazing. I can't wait for this set - a great new environment to use for an elven palace or elven temple or other fey or forest environment.

The walls looks thin.
I remember people saying the same thing from DOE sets but the final result should be great.

It's not exactly what I want, I still prefer dunjeons made of stones & deep caverns and obscure temples.
My second priority is the medieval outdoors with streets and ways.

I like this. I am a sci-fi gamer and I am always open to different environments. A race that mutate growing plants to make buildings? Take me to your leader!
