Update!
Posted by admin - 2011/08/17 13:18

We are back from Gen Con Indy, and I thought I would give you the best update that I can on a few subjects.

Woodland Set & Woodland Set Accessories Set: We will post info, pics and a video later this week -- and start pre-orders online on Monday, 8/22.

Europe:We have been working on a less expensive way to get our sets into the hands of our EU collectors, and we continue to do so. We hope to make progress on this issue within the year, if not sooner. No promises, of course, but we wanted to let you know that we are trying to find a good solution.

Restocks: Again, nothing is official, but we hope to have many of our classic sets back in stock in February. Thank you for your patience!

And thank you for your continued feedback on how to make DF better for our collectors.

As stated many times before, I'm very excited for the new Woodland set. And despite being an American, I look forward to seeing a resolution to the European shipping issue- less money going to shipping and customs means more money in the pockets of DF, making them a healthier company. We would all benefit from that, obviously.

Huzzah!!

Another bonus of resolving the European issue is continued orders of DF from our overseas brethren. Plus, we get to see the ultracool pictures from Tom, Dave, Lord, Kronos and the rest of the gang!!
