PFS - Prince of Augustana

Posted by Thod - 2011/11/22 14:37

I'm getting some friends of my son around later and they play their second Pathfinder Society game. I thought I quickly build something up for them.

These are the first three acts. The whole adventure is placed in the Sewers of Augustana. I'm using some of my own Sewer Set for that but tried to use DF where possible. The walkways in the first encounter is supposed to be 5 foot up. The pedestals solve the problem that I don't have enough half floor pieces. Can't remember that I ever used them all ...

Act 2 is at a branch of the sewer - an encounter with a swarm. Actually - I also use a balustrade from the MBS with a Cavern rock below it as 'bridge' in Act 1.

Act 3/4 are in a sanctuary. I use the RotA set to change the flavour a little bit. It also fits on the build of Act 2 with minimal changes. So I reuse the parts from that act and just add the sanctuary.

Otherworld zombies work fine as poor souls who look for refuge. I have to be careful here as last game I used them as Lepers and they were evil. Need to ensure the group isn't attacking them on side as 'they had been evil last time'.

Very cool. Good thing I play in a Pathinder Adventure Path game, not Pathfinder Society. I wouldn't be able to help from spoilers as I like looking at your posts.

We actually managed to finish the scenario - here is the last encounter.

2 Fighters, 1 barbarian and a ninja against 3 demons.

I daresay the other GMs and Venture Captains must be envious of your setups.

I like it Thod! ...and I'm still looking for the best greenish squares tiles to mimic sewers as you did. Could you tell us where the coffins are from?

The coffins are Hirst Arts - I think it is the Graveyard Mould.

I also had a lot of Sarcophagi but I once donated 30 with mummies for an Art project at school. They had Egypt as topic and every child got his own mummy with sarcophagus to paint. . I need to recast them.

I just thought I would tell all of you about a supplier of those Hirst Arts coffins already cast in resin I just found: http://www.nalsworkshop.com/coffin-wlid-p-333.html?osCsid=4l96scj2rqjshmnlip3r5sjrq2

They come unpainted in packs of 6 (with lids) for only $4.50. I just bought 12!
