A very DF Christmas !

Posted by jls304 - 2011/11/28 13:15

I was wondering what everyone will be getting themselves for Christmas this year. Money was pretty tight for me but after selling some war gaming stuff I can get a few sets.

Definately getting a Realm of the Ancients Expansion and my last Den of Evil WE set. I'd like to get at least one woodlands set and the accesories to go with it but depending on what this new set is
I might go that route.

Do you go with sets you don't have or pad your collection with more duplicates ?

I'm so tempted to just get like 4-5 more Den of Evil sets because they are almost sold out. I love the line but how much is too much ?

I have no idea if I will or even can get myself a little something extra this year. Money is tight (old credit card debt, new baby) and space is at a premium. I'll probably just be sticking to buying limited edition sets- its easier to legitimize that with my financial planner (aka my wife).

But if I had about $400 to spend, I'd be picking up the Ruins set for sure, maybe some wicked additions sets and possibly expanding my cavernous collection. Since this is strictly a fantasy, I didn't check to see if any of that is actually in stock ;)

I hope Santa gets all the DFers what they wished for this year!

If the stars align this holiday season ($$$), I would like to pick up three Woodland sets, one or two of the accessory sets, one or two of the new set (depending on what it is), and maybe a room and passage just to give me more basic dungeon stuff.

I have a storage problem of my own. All of my sets are currently stacked from floor to ceiling in a closet, but there might be room for a couple more. ;]

My personal Christmas present is my preorder of the 3 Woodland sets and Woodland Accessories. However, should I come across a windfall then I too would be buying DOE. I only have one of each of the room set and WA. I would like at least one more of each. That is probably next year though as I am keeping some funds aside for whatever new set Stefan is launching.

I am not sure how the heck I whittle down my huge want list to a list of things I can afford. I will probably get some Den of Evil before they are gone, some ruins, and then wait for some restock. And lastly I will cry when I see the stuff I cannot afford yet.

Being a european customer, my christmas will probably be in february next year. This xmas I am only getting myself one or two of those:

Still I am saving up for when Thod's delivery will be reaching us and I am planniung on spending close to 1k EUR. Mostly Cavernous Lake Sets and Expansions plus maybe the Woodland Set and the new one depending on what it will be.

Pusherman, Dwarf

I hope I will be able to serve you well. I took care to have enough Cavern Sets on order so that I'm not running short. And I also have all Wicked Addition Sets. And your orders and hopefully others will help me to have another container in before Christmas 2012 so that next year you won't have to wait another 2 month.

Sounds crazy - but yes - while you think about Christmas this year I've started to think of next year and how long after February I will have time to sell before ordering again.

Thod, will you have individual pieces, too? Looking for some of those water tiles.

I'm afraid the only single pieces on order this time around are the 6*6 floors. I tried to concentrate on the sets and offer as wide a selection as possible. The only other single pieces on offer will be some trap pieces from the original distributor in Europe.
But please let me know what you are interested in. I can't promise - but if I read it here that there is a demand, then I will consider it.
