Some changes / bug fixes to the European site

Posted by Thod - 2012/01/12 04:17

There has been some work going on

1) Generating a new account does work now. Sorry if you tried and failed. Please try again.

2) We should have removed now all (most?) link backs to the US site. Please let me know if you still see some information that needs changed.

3) I added direct payment as an option for UK customers in addition to PayPal. This is currently being tested and I will have to decide if it stays an option.

==========

Re:Some changes / bug fixes to the European site

Posted by Pusherman - 2012/01/12 06:56

Is there any reason there isn't a link to the forum on the site.

==========

Re:Some changes / bug fixes to the European site

Posted by Thod - 2012/01/12 08:55

Pusherman wrote:
Is there any reason there isn't a link to the forum on the site.

Yes - my own inexperience with the Admin tools at my command.

More seriously:
There is now a button that leads directly to the US website. If you didn't notice it: It is in the banner - Not from the EU. I know - this is a two click approach.
This was added just in the last 2 days via the web hosting company.

I 'should' be able to add a 'Forum' heading but didn't feel confident enough yet to do so. It is easier to break something.

I'm just trying it out now.

Thod

==========

Re:Some changes / bug fixes to the European site
Posted by Thod - 2012/01/12 09:11

_____

I knew there was a reason not to try ...

I added a Forum link. This link will lead to an extra Window and the US site.

There is one drawback. For some reason there seems more padding on the EU side between buttons as there is on the US site. The 'button' therefore moved into a second line - under the home button.

I leave it as is for the moment - so I haven't disabled it. I don't like to pester the web developer on a daily basis. Feedback welcome.

==========

Re:Some changes / bug fixes to the European site
Posted by Pusherman - 2012/01/13 13:48

_____

Thanks for trying, hope you get it sorted as i prefer to have one link rather than having two on my favourite list.
It works fine just aesthetically it isnt the best.

==========

Re:Some changes / bug fixes to the European site
Posted by Thod - 2012/01/17 04:02

_____

Pusherman wrote:
Thanks for trying, hope you get it sorted as i prefer to have one link rather than having two on my favourite list.
It works fine just aesthetically it isnt the best.

Hope it looks better now. Splattered Ink did correct the spacing and it is now all one line.

==========

Re:Some changes / bug fixes to the European site
Posted by Pusherman - 2012/01/17 06:57

_____

Works and looks perfect on mine, thankyou.

==========