The container

Posted by Thod - 2012/02/14 14:03

Here are some photos done during the unloading. My main camera wasn't charged and ran out early - so I have a few more how it started.

We are here already quite far advanced .

The idea was simple - we unlaod one 40 feet container and store everything in 2 20 feet containers. So far the theory - the first one is full

Who left the walkway in the middle - valuable space ... In the end we needed a third container just to get everything out.

After 1 1/2 hour hard work we started to joke. This wasn't a container - it was the Tardis. It was bigger inside as outside. At that stage I was digging towards the back as the container had to end eventually.

The last box.

And because it was the last one - again

At some stage I felt this would never happen

And the last box a last time

Aarghh - Pictures are too big ...

==========

Re:The container

Posted by HeroQuestFrance - 2012/02/15 06:49

LOL

In the past I also had to unload (daily) containers when I was working for a european distributor. Just imagine this summer ...

==========

Re:The container

Posted by Thod - 2012/02/15 07:00

_____

HeroQuestFrance wrote:
LOL

In the past I also had to unload (daily) containers when I was working for a european distributor. Just imagine this summer ...

Next Time we ask you to come and help.

I'm not home right now and need a computer to resize the pictures.

Will try tonight. List of things on to do list grows.

==========

Re:The container

Posted by Harneloot - 2012/02/24 14:36

_____

Would sill love to see these pictures as soon as you have the time Thod :)

==========

Re:The container

Posted by Pusherman - 2012/02/24 15:59

_____

Yes me too, i forgot about this post.

==========