I really love the DOE line

Posted by jericho - 2012/02/15 14:42

I received my 2 DOE room sets and a DOE WA set yesterday and I was blown away by the detail. The pictures on-line do not do this set justice. I can't wait to use it since it fits perfect in my current campaign (which is heavily Orcus themed). All of the pieces fit together perfect - no seams. It has a much darker look in person than in photographs.

For the body filled blood pool from the WA set I have already begun thinking about how to use it. I think I will have the bodies be zombies sloshing around in the pool of blood and anyone who falls in it will take "Zombie Swarm" damage (I will just make up this mechanic). Also, it will have an initiative and on each turn there will be a probability that a zombie gets out and proceeds to munch on the nearest hero.

==========

Re:I really love the DOE line

Posted by jls304 - 2012/02/15 17:14

The pieces have an incredible amount of detail and look really good.
I love the line and will be buying 3-4 of the new set when it comes out.
The only problems I've seen with the sets are with the passage pieces from the first set. They don't line up completely flush so you end up with some gaps. I've had that issue with 3 different R&P sets so I think it's pretty common.

==========