More Den of Evil Room and Passage.

Posted by magne - 2012/02/18 06:05

_____

Hi,

Can you please make more of the Den of Evil Room and Passage set, or something simular that has the T, L and + shaped hallways?

I would love to get the other Den of Evil sets, but feel that I am missing out without those shapes.

By the way, Dwarven Forge makes my DnD campaignes the most awsome in the world. Do not ever stop. I have been playing for 16 years +- and I dont think I stop playing until I die of old age. I think that my future kids will be spoiled with all these great miniatures around them!

Keep up the awsomeness!

==========

Re:More Den of Evil Room and Passage.

Posted by Thod - 2012/02/18 07:11

_____

Magne

My influence on what Stefan will be making is limited. But I'm sure he is reading this.

One good option is the new 6 inch corridor. You just take one side out and add a 2 inch corridor to turn it into a T-corridor or you take 2 sides out and add 2 2 inch corridors and you have a X-corridor.

And it even has the advantage that you can add a corridor directly to a room without the need to have something inbetween.

The disadvantage - yep - it is a limited piece.

I also noticed you are from Norway. Appology - for some reason you come up as the most expensive shipping option in all of Europe with our default shipper. At some stage I need to look into alternatives. Not sure why it should be that expensive as there must be ships directly from the UK to Norway.

I just wanted to say - I'm aware of this.

Thod

==========

Re:More Den of Evil Room and Passage.

Posted by zazulu - 2012/02/18 12:22

_____

The flexibility of the RoTA, and now DoE:Exp, style 4x4 intersection should not be overlooked. My first DF order was 2x RoTA1 & 1x RoTA2. At no point did I feel restricted in an ability to make a winding, albeit small, dungeon (relative to the number of pieces I had at the time).

Yes, I eventually ended up buying 1 DoE:R&P off ebay (my only non-official purchase, I promise). I had the exact same concern as you did since I had just purchased DoE:R & DoE:WA. I wanted passages matching the same theme. However, if I were jumping into DoE today, I would have probably just gotten 2x DoE:Exp instead if my interest was intersections and turns.

My request would be to make the DoE 6 inch corridior a semi-permanent addition to the DF lineup. The modular nature of it, as Thod elaborated, is rather extensive. Maybe just have a limited supply made each time you order a container with DoE in it?

==========

Re:More Den of Evil Room and Passage.

Posted by jericho - 2012/02/18 18:42

_____

I would buy 2 DoE rooms and passage sets if they did one more run (especially since I just bought 2 rooms sets, 1 wicked addition set, and the expansion set from the DoE line.

==========

Re:More Den of Evil Room and Passage.

Posted by biowizard - 2012/02/19 17:25

_____

I guess the point of making a "limited edition line" is to create some hype over the demand as customers get to have something special that only a limited number of persons will have. On the other hand for DF though, they cannot produce anymore of the product that sold out even if there is still a demand for it (DOE Room & Passages Set, sells most of the time for $220 and more on eBay) without being dishonest with their original customers. Legit customers who missed on the opportunity to buy those sets (short on cash at the time or that learned of those products of late...) really feel they should also be given a chance to buy these Sets. This is why I'd prefer that DF would no longer limit the number of any given Set they produce. But then, I don't know if Jeff & Stefan feel they have any regrets in their experience with limited Sets and their profitability for the company (which is ultimately good for all of us).

==========

Re:More Den of Evil Room and Passage.

Posted by biowizard - 2012/02/19 17:36

_____

Also, I think only the DOE R&P (within the Limited Edition Sets) sold out. I think some guy bought a huge quantity of those Sets from DF back in the days and later sold those Sets when they sold out on the DF site at a higher price on eBay. This strategy took money away from real DF customers and from DF itself ultimately. I believe now that DF limits the number of Limited Edition Sets that can be bought by only one person, for which I am thankful.

Finally, I won't be surprised that the price of all limited edition Sets will soar when they sell out and I would therefore encourage all of you to buy them before it is to late, although I don't know when that will be. Maybe we could be getting a "heads up" as to the numbers of Sets remaining?

==========

Re:More Den of Evil Room and Passage.
Posted by biowizard - 2012/02/19 17:44

_____

Perhaps making a Limited Edition "Den of Evil Passage Sets" (without the "Rooms" part) could be a viable option for everyone here? There would be no cheating here for DF regarding the "Limited Edition" part of the original Sets. After all, the DOE walls and corner walls were already within two different Sets, why not the corridors? Also, it would also allow people like magne and I to have DOE corridors...

==========

Re:More Den of Evil Room and Passage.
Posted by biowizard - 2012/02/19 20:26

_____

That's insane! Another DOE Room & Passage Set just sold for more then $265 (including shipping) on eBay.

==========

Re:More Den of Evil Room and Passage.
Posted by Lordannilhus - 2012/02/20 13:26

_____

Hello,

May be for someone here :

http://www.ebay.com/itm/Dwarven-Forge-Master-Maze-Evil-Den-Room-and-Passage-set-with-COA-Incomplete-/160741986962?pt=LH_DefaultDomain_0&hash=item256cf81292

Soon

Lord

==========

Re:More Den of Evil Room and Passage.
Posted by jericho - 2012/02/20 13:33

_____

I know I lost the bid to that about $100 ago.

==========

Re:More Den of Evil Room and Passage.
Posted by jericho - 2012/02/20 13:34

_____

Yes I saw that one. It is incomplete so I passed.

==========

Re:More Den of Evil Room and Passage.
Posted by jls304 - 2012/02/20 14:30

_____

The Room and passage set comes up on ebay from time to time. It usually ranges from 150 to 250 but of course right now with a new DOE set coming out, demand is going to push the price to the higher end of the spectrum. With room sets in stock and this new expansion you can simulate the room and passage set pretty well. You wont have the special 3 way pieces and the diagonal corners but thats not sacrificing too much.

I never use my passages much anyways so I don't think they're really required. Of course they may seem more use now that we have some long passages and walls to act as dead ends.

I understand the desire to reprint it but that wouldnt be fair to the people that purchased the set thinking it's a limited production item.

==========

Re:More Den of Evil Room and Passage.
Posted by GoldenAxe - 2012/02/20 14:54

_____

The Den of Evil line is my favorite. I think it would be unfair to release a sold out limited edition item. Buy what is avaible and mix in other sets. Possibly repainting dungeon pieces to give a sinister feel. I am happy with the new expansion. Except for the price. The more I look at the actual pieces being released in the newer sets and calculating the bang for the buck it doesn't seem right.

==========

Re:More Den of Evil Room and Passage.

Posted by jericho - 2012/02/20 15:37

All that "limited" does is to drive up the prices on the secondary market. Surely those who already have 1 R&P set may want more. If the demand is there - why not? Does it belittle your purchase if I (a newcomer to DF) want to buy a R&P set to compliment the other 4 sets I bought from that line?

If collectibility is that important, they could change the passage pieces slightly so that they would be marked as "DoE Run II" (this is done a lot with "limited" collectibles).

Edit: They could have a quasi-rerelease only available to customers who have spent over $1000 or something like that. Or just periodically (every few years) open up a limited pre-order so they don't over manufacture.

==========

Re:More Den of Evil Room and Passage.

Posted by Stefan - 2012/02/20 17:52

It could be possible to make some new passages...I'll think about how to do it...they should be interesting enough to validate their creation...

==========

Re:More Den of Evil Room and Passage.

Posted by Pusherman - 2012/02/21 02:20

The new 6" corridor and a 2 short passages can make t-junctions and the 4-way passageway you just need new corner passages. It would be great though if Stefan made some more as I also missed out on the passageway set and it would greatly increase the usefulness of future DoE sets.

==========