Very nice!

I like the door on top of the wall piece/stairs as the dungeon entrance. I hadn't thought of doing that. I always get a lot of new ideas looking at other's setups.

The re-painted HQ stuff looks really good also.

Heya CD;

Thanks dude. I will pass your accolades onto my son (he is asleep at the moment - it is 11:00pm).

The door, and Mordenkainen, were Aidens ideas, I like the door idea, and using Mordenkainen in the pic was pretty cool as well (the position of his had looks like he just opened the door, or is holding it open).

Thanks for the comment on the PP HQ stuff, I will pass it on to Mrs. Darkfather. She isn't happy with any of it so far, but she realises she hasn't painted for over 8 yrs herself, so she is still in 'practice mode'. I personally love the stuff. Anything to dress up my DF scenery is fine by me.

I do appologise to all for the pics (well some of them), I have a new camera, and am still getting used to it. (I LOVE THE MACRO FEATURE)!!!

Great stuff! I love the drow running across the log...

Great pics, too. There's nothing like discovering that you can take good close-up photos. I have so many thousands of pics of my DF displays of he past few years, it's completely out of control.

Yes the Drow on the Log caught my Eye too... I Also Dig the "Entry" Scene... It is Obvious that DarkChild "Gets it", in terms of themeing an Area... So Kudos! (And no there is no Intentional E.S.T. Concept stuff there...)...

Very nice dungeon! I like the hall with all the Drow Crossbowmen the most... Good luck getting through THAT!

You don't have to apologize for posting pics, you know! In fact, here, it's just the opposite.

Now post more! Cuz if you don't shakes fist ala Simpsons :P

Oh, and about some of the points you made at first -- yes, I noticed that some of the pieces are a little higher now -- also, as someone else pointed out, there is a tiny tiny color variation. Older DF pieces aren't quite as blue, or as glossy. I thought it might just be aging, that the pieces have yellowed over time, but looking at them, it's clear that isn't the case. The new pieces are a tiny bit shinier and more blue is in them.

It's not supernoticeable, but if you browse through some of the pics I've posted, you can see where new pieces (from the fantasy starter or the floor set) are possible to "pick out" In my displays, I don't pay any attention as I'm building, but when I'm done, I can see which of the corner pieces came from the fantasy starter, and which of the walls. Kinda a shame, but not so bad it ruins it. The height thing is a shade worse (get it?!) but still not the end of the world (it might bug me more if I had more starters -- as the new sets pile up, it might start to get to me -- right now only 5% of my collection is slightly off, when that number rises to 30% or 40% it may be more of an issue)

Yeah MLV;

Grenadier 1984 - Writhing Crusher. It's 'mate' in the Blister pack is/was a Beholder type creature called a Seeker of Souls. My seekers's tendrals have all but snapped off over the years though...

That Sounds Familiar... Not Sure about the Beholder Thingy... Seems I Got it in a Boxed Set of Monsters... Maybe a Giant Centipede Looking Guy? Can't remember what Else... Still have the Centipede thing too... (Maybe a Carrion Crawler)?
