Someday a dedicated swamp set with cypress trees with big arched roots monsters could be hiding under and other creepy trees swamp trees in it would be great. If the trees were removable you could also use them in a graveyard build.

If there were skulls or corpses in some of swamp tiles that could make some fun sections for evil swamps. They might even transition into a swampy graveyard with a entrance into the catacomb sets.

Very cool and atmospheric, I love the setup! It really looks like a swamp, what an awesome idea to use the Cavernous Rivers this way! Thank you for sharing! :)

_____

How many of each lake, or river set did you use to make this build?

Nice setup! I love the use of the terrain to make a cliff face...speaking of: where did you get that terrain at? I am interested in some myself!

Great job Tom!! More ideas for me to use, thanks!
Given Thraug's post, I suspect he may be a Happy Jacks fan.

Happy Jacks RPG Podcast. They are fond of saying "pics or it didn't happen" , as you did. The early episodes are quite good, the last year or so has strayed too much into Traveller and Savage Worlds for my taste. I'm pretty much just a DnD kinda guy.
