I just came across this company & had to share. Has anyone bought from them before? Is the quality as good as the pictures?

Please let me know if you have and your experience. Thx.

Yes, I have found a retailer at our convention in Essen selling them some years ago.
As I am a huge fan of the recently deceased artist Parkinson and my wife loves Elmore, we bought a couple of miniatures. Their quality is good imho.

Dark Sword Miniatures has an excellent line of minis. They carry the official Game of Thrones minis, heartily approved by George R.R. Martin. Their figures tend to use "normal" scale weapons, as opposed to the ginormous weapons sometimes seen in other mini lines. They have figures based on the art of Larry Elmore and Keith Parkinson, plus a cool line of "Frog King's Court" minis. They're certainly worth checking out.

Is it me or do their minis have superb details? Someone with great painting skills could make them into a work of art!
