Sea Monster for Cavernous Lake
Posted by jackattack - 2013/01/15 16:00

_____

In my search for dead guy miniatures, I happened across this.

http://www.frpgames.com/cart.php?m=product_detail&p=49025#.UPXPCGt5mSM

Dragonblood Miniatures' "Mosasaur of the Inner Sea" sculpted for 28mm scale. I think this would look fantastic on top of some Open Water tiles, threatening a ship or a band of PCs in boats and rafts.

Does anyone else have a good rising-from-the-depths miniature that would go well with DF water/lake pieces?
http://www.dwarvenforge.com/images/fbfiles/images/product_49025.jpg

==========

Re:Sea Monster for Cavernous Lake
Posted by biowizard - 2013/01/17 09:07

_____

There is the "swamp creature" from Grendel.

http://www.dwarvenforge.com/images/fbfiles/images/swamp_creature.jpg

==========

Re:Sea Monster for Cavernous Lake
Posted by biowizard - 2013/01/17 09:09

_____

There is also the "sea monster" from Kobblestone Miniatures.

http://www.dwarvenforge.com/images/fbfiles/images/sea_monster.jpg

==========

Re:Sea Monster for Cavernous Lake
Posted by dandare - 2013/01/19 16:56

_____

All three are great!
I want all three. Now added to my ebay "Painted" figures watch list!

I will try and dig out the dozen or so painted figures that work well with this set I already have and add to this post when I do.

==========

Re:Sea Monster for Cavernous Lake
Posted by jericho - 2013/01/19 17:26

_____

If you are in the mood for some DIY:

Tentacles

BIG TENTACLES

==========

Re:Sea Monster for Cavernous Lake
Posted by Zargon - 2013/01/24 14:29

_____

I can't think of any other "rising from the depths" miniatures off the top of my head other than the ones mentioned above, but I can offer some deep water denizens poised in a natural submerged way if you are interested?

==========

Re:Sea Monster for Cavernous Lake
Posted by jackattack - 2013/01/24 21:18

_____

Why not?

Post away, Zargon, and anybody else who has "submerged" miniatures to share/recommend.

==========

Re:Sea Monster for Cavernous Lake
Posted by Zargon - 2013/01/25 18:30

_____

Sure,
I really like that Mosasaur by the way... It's really neat.

My favorite is the up and coming Aboleth from the Midgard Kickstarter:

http://sphotos-b.xx.fbcdn.net/hphotos-ash3/528032_10151013137521903_1932549866_n.jpg

(as it may well be known wizards did a pre-painted plastic one too at one time, but I'm not too sure it would meet your tastes, so I'll just mention it in passing http://www.trollandtoad.com/pd2575773.html.)

Reaper has a similar model called a Goroloth here

http://www.reapermini.com/OnlineStore/squid/sku-down/03230 of course they also have an assortment of other aquatic miniatures as well.

They also did a lovely Kraken but it's oop due to a limited run of 250, so that'll be a tricky find.

These might make for an interesting twist in your game: http://wargamesfoundry.com/_images/thumbs/WG419%20-%20Water%20Spirit%20Nymphs_1329323979_760x500.png?prodid=84325 They are from wargamesfoundry.com

Well, that's a few items for thought at least. Hopefully you'll find something that you like in your search! :)

==========