Re:Centerstage Miniatures Kickstarter Posted by Arcarius2001 - 2012/09/24 11:35

I was on the fence when this started. Now, the $75 pledge is too good to pass up.

Re:Centerstage Miniatures Kickstarter Posted by Zargon - 2012/09/25 18:24
I don't understand why one $75.00 backer level has no shipping charge (and now it's sold out at 88?) and the other $75.00 level has a $15.00 charge. And then you have to add $20.00 just to get the 20k level reward they acheived?
So far it looks like 32 minis for $90.00 I'll keep an eye on this one.
Re:Centerstage Miniatures Kickstarter Posted by Dwarf - 2012/09/25 23:29
I bet it was a mistake on their side. They put up that $75 pledge and noticed afterwards that it didn't charge shipping. As far as I know, Kickstarter won't let you change existing pledge levels (except for making them limited), so they "closed" the old one and put up a new one with shipping charges.
- Dwarf
Re:Centerstage Miniatures Kickstarter Posted by Zargon - 2012/09/26 20:38
Dwarf,
You're probably right, I thank you for the comment. The Centerstage pieces have a certain charm to them, and the demons and devil addition looks like it could draw a lot of attention to their business. I wish them all the luck in this kickstarter. After all, the better they do the better we all do.
Re:Centerstage Miniatures Kickstarter Posted by Arcarius2001 - 2012/10/09 01:00
$75 gets you the giant five headed "dragon king". If you need a mini for Tiamat, now's your chance. Plus the new stretch goals of Geryon, Moloch, Grazzt, Demogorgon, Orcus, and Asmodeus all sound good too!
http://www.kickstarter.com/projects/centerstageminis/28mm-demons-and-devils-center-stage-miniatures

Re:Centerstage Miniatures Kickstarter Posted by Harneloot - 2012/10/09 16:15
NO - we already have DDMs for all these!
Join the Dungeon Crawler pre-painted Kickstarter!
http://www.kickstarter.com/projects/1941357427/dungeon-crawler-minis-tidal-wave-dcm?ref=live
:-)
(LOL - dueling kickstarts!amazing how this has the potential to seriously change the business model for niche merchandise, yes? The customers do a good part of the advertising for you!)
Re:Centerstage Miniatures Kickstarter Posted by Arcarius2001 - 2012/10/10 08:45
That too looks like a great project. I am moving away from plastics though. I like painting and the personal touch it adds to the mini. But I wonder how long all these minis will take to paint! Even if I set a goal of one a week, which would be about all the time I can dedicate, I will have almost 7 years of painting ahead of me!! Maybe plastics aren't such a bad idea
Re:Centerstage Miniatures Kickstarter Posted by Kradlo - 2012/10/12 00:13
I decided to join on this one as well. I'll be flooded with minis over the coming months!
Re:Centerstage Miniatures Kickstarter Posted by Kradlo - 2012/10/12 00:15
Dork Tower summed up how Kickstarter campaigns can become addictive:
http://www.dorktower.com/files/2012/04/DorkTower1055.gif

This may turn out to be the biggest "mini" in my collection. Way bigger than the WOTC colossal red dragon. And the heads aren't even on yet!

Preview pic of the five headed dragon sculpt posted today on Facebook. $75 well spent I say. http://www.dwarvenforge.com/images/fbfiles/images/image-cc97ef5d2fcad70d734216da753ac9df.jpg
