Dwarvenite Kickstarter Update Please? Posted by RBloom0566 - 2013/07/18 21:51
Greetings Craftmasters of Dwarven Forge! It has been a long, quiet spell since a hush fell over the fields of Kickstarter following your victory. Pray tell, what news from the Forge halls on the new construction underway?

I find it amazing that 20% of the Game Tiles are already manufactured, painted, and packaged! http://www.dwarvenforge.com/newsletter/packages.jpg

One question though:

Are all the tiles being painted with the same pattern? It looks that way in the pictures. One of the cool little touches in my existing Master Maze pieces is that they're painted in a variety of patterns. I mean, the second and third paint colors don't always hit the exact same stones in the exact same pattern. It's terrific, because you can put five wall pieces next to each other without a pattern emerging. It looks natural and convincing.

Here's hoping a similar variety is planned for the Game Tiles...

good question...we made 5 different "patterns" You are probably seeing the production for 1 of the 5 different painting stations...

Shoulda known you guys had planned ahead for every little detail like this. :)

There's a reason DF is the gold standard, after all. Thanks for the info!

...and now back to saving my pennies for the Passages Kickstarter. Man oh man am I excited for a future paved with Dwarvenite!

Multiple paint patterns for a single piece- you guys don't even skimp on your "entry level" sets! Bravo.
