

Cavern Project

Posted by Crimson_King_of_the_Tower - 2013/07/23 14:34

Hello all i wanted to post some pictures for the project im working on at the moment. I will state for the record im not trying to sell or otherwise make money or anything like that off of them im doing this strictly for the reason of even when the cavern sets DO get restocked ill never have enough money to get all the ones i want lol. Now with that said here are some pictures of my cavern floor piece i sculpted, i will be doing some walls and other pieces to go with it this one just came out so well i wanted to share sorry for the long intro lemme know what you think.

Looks great. I've been making my own pieces for several years and as long as they don't show up for sale I say go for it. Stefan has inspired me and I my students. Keep sculpting and building. If you come up with something especially cool show it to Stefan, he always seems open to new ideas and collaboration.

Great job! How did you make the texture on the piece? Did you shape it by hand or use something to press into the material?

TY Richens and if by texture you mean all the little pits and tiny things i just rolled a little rock over it other than that it was all shaped in super sculpey firm by some sculpting tools i cant wait to do some more thank you for your interest
