Vhat ∣	produc	ts go	well with	Dwarven	Forge?
lootod by	Thoddius.	2012/00	/NE NO:30		•

Hey guys, I'm fairly new to 3d terrain and just heard about Dwarven Forge through a friend of mine who told me about http://www.kickstarter.com/projects/dwarvenforge/dwarven-forges-game-tiles-revolutionary-miniature I loved the look of this stuff and went MEGA CRAZY with a pledge cough... cough 2k well spent ^ ^

Anyway I was wondering if any of you guys/girls know of other sites that sell pre-painted/non painted terrain/objects that go well with my stuff coming in October. As I tried looking through the forums and had no idea of where to look.

Could you please post the links below.

Much appreciated, ^ ^

PS. Anyone know where I could purchase the dwarven forge medieval set and how long does it take for new stock to be made on here :D

Hey there and welcome to the forums! As far as some websites with accessories the one I used just sold all of its molds BUT i think they sold some of them to this link http://www.midlamminiatures.co.uk/....Also since i made a pretty large order on the KS as well I have been getting into making my own accessories with sculpey and super sculpey. Its really foor for say crates, barrels, chests chairs tables and its REALLY fun you might look into getting some from your local hobby store. And as far as restocks go I think its a couple times a year with one coming up soon I believe the best thing i can tell you is sign up to be notified on the items you want and be ready lol. I hope that helped have a great day.

Try Thomarillion to start with. Lots of furniture items, but they need to be painted.

Welcome to the forum Thaddius!

Make sure to look a the many beautiful and inspiring posts in the "Cool Photos of Dwarven Forge" section!

A few classic fantasy decor links: http://www.thomarillion.de/ http://www.scotiagrendel.com/ http://www.magneticdisplays.co.uk/ (pre-painted Grendel) http://www.armorcast.com/ http://www.psomminiature.com/ Re:What products go well with Dwarven Forge? Posted by richens - 2013/08/05 22:06 I think TerranScapes has quality stuff. Re:What products go well with Dwarven Forge? Posted by Thaddius - 2013/08/06 04:45 Thanks for the vast replies, really appreciate it. :D @ Crimson King of the Tower, Yeah I looked into making my own using moulds that you can purchase from sites. Is it hard to do? And thank you for answering my PS question. @ biowizard, thank you for the welcome, yeah will do I love the creative ways members on here use their terrain. It's fantastic Re:What products go well with Dwarven Forge? Posted by Crimson_King_of_the_Tower - 2013/08/06 10:40 As far as using molds that you can by on the internet from say hirst arts its not too difficult and if you find it daunting the guy has lots of really good instructional tutorials and videos on how to use them and cast items so i dont think you would have too many problems

There are also a number of sites that sell HirstArts in varying degrees of finished, from unpainted individual precast bricks to fully painted and assembled buildings.

Most of the sites being listed are foreign. I'm surprised no one has mentioned www.showcaseterrain.com. I'm preparing to make an order with them in a week or so. Has anyone tried their products before?

Also if you go on Ebay and search for seller jahecker he makes and paints lots of great terrain and I personally feel his prices are not bad at all.

As far as showcase terrain goes I think that is one of the places that jackattack is referring to about selling some of the hirts arts stuff in various stages of finish I may be wrong. But I WAS about to buy some of their dungeon tiles before i found out about the DF kickstarter and now I have more pieces than i know what to do with. I'm going to have to get bigger graph paperlol http://www.miniaturewovencarpet.com/

they have some very nice rugs for your dungeons. i got some 2"x4" and 4"x6" rugs from them.

Hey guys, I wanted to use some Steampunk Malifaux Miniatures with my game tiles. They are 32mm and I know DF is 25mm (1 inch)
Has anybody had any experience mixing these two in a game?
Does it mess up the flow of combat if the mini is off by a 1/4 inch? (tactics wise?)
Has anybody tried using 25mm bases with the Malifaux Minis?
Has anybody found any similar steampunk minis that DID work?
(I'll also start a new thread on Malifaux)
Thanks =) -Fizz
Re:What products go well with Dwarven Forge? Posted by Coign - 2013/10/24 11:23 I am looking forward to the new Bones Kickstarter and their dungeon decor pack. I am getting three of the core decor and two more of the add-on decor sets. http://www.kickstarter.com/projects/1513061270/reaper-miniatures-bones-ii-the-return-of-mr-bones

Any plans for DF to do some more decor?
Can't decide if I should pick them up in the Bones KS, or just wait for DF stuff.

Generated: 30 July, 2014, 13:32 Posted by galladril - 2013/10/24 15:45 http://www.itarsworkshop.com/index.php/products He ran a KS that began not too long after the DF KS ended: http://www.kickstarter.com/projects/554948184/itars-workshop-dungeon-terrain?ref=live I am still waiting for my pieces, and I know he is hard at work on them, but the accessories that he is making seem like they would be great additions to DF, which is why I backed him. I didn't pledge a single nickel for the terrain though - I just didn't like it as much as DF. I don't know how long it would take to get, because he is in process of KS order fulfillment, but it is another option for you. :) Hope this helps! Re:What products go well with Dwarven Forge? Posted by jimibones83 - 2013/10/25 06:47 @Fizzikx I think I'd prolly just try to rebase them on 25mm bases
