Dwarven Forge - Dwarven Forge Generated: 22 July, 2014, 21:56

A Grand Entrance. Posted by otherworld - 2005/03/26 16:47
I like the new swinging doors, but they just don't cut the mustard as an imposing entance to a dungeon. decided to have a go at scratch-building my own set of double-doors, and these are the results
A Grand Entrance. Posted by otherworld - 2005/03/26 17:00
Four intrepid adventurers warily approach the portal
A Grand Entrance. Posted by otherworld - 2005/03/26 17:03
With a creak of rusty hinges, the ancient doors start to open
A Grand Entrance. Posted by otherworld - 2005/03/26 17:04
to reveal the horrors lurking in the darkness!
A Grand Entrance. Posted by otherworld - 2005/03/26 17:07
A tribe of vicious Bugbears!
A Grand Entrance. Posted by otherworld - 2005/03/26 17:09
Here's the door (closed) on it's own.

Dwarven Forge - Dwarven Forge

Generated: 22 July, 2014, 21:56

A Grand Entrance. Posted by otherworld - 2005/03/26 17:10
and with the doors open.
A Grand Entrance. Posted by otherworld - 2005/03/26 17:11
and from the back (inside), showing the bowtie connector grooves.
A Grand Entrance. Posted by Kradlo - 2005/03/26 17:50
Now that's a spiffy double door! Excellent work, and nice little touches. The skulls on the hinges are very nice, and you even put in notches for the bowtie connectors. Great stuff!  Kradlo
A Grand Entrance. Posted by MyLordVoid - 2005/03/27 13:53
Otherworld,
Nicely Done I Like the Bowtie Slots (Even If I Do not use them, it is a very Clever Addition) And the Vines on the exterior remind me a bit of the Entrance to Moria(EFG) What all did you use to build this?
A Grand Entrance. Posted by otherworld - 2005/03/27 15:34
like made from belon wood of verious above and since comed with a year of the The

It's made from balsa wood of various shapes and sizes, carved with a very sharp craft knife. The keyplate, ring-handles and hinges (without skulls) came from a local doll's house supplier, and the skulls (above the arch and on the hinges) are made by Freebooter Miniatures in Germany. The paints used are all current Citadel acrylics.

All the figures are from Citadel's old AD&D range from the mid 1980s.

A Grand Entrance. Posted by MyLordVoid - 2005/04/02 13:40 Great Example of what can be done with a Bit of Creativity!

Dwarven Forge - Dwarven Forge Generated: 22 July, 2014, 21:56