Dwarven Forge - Dwarven Forge

Generated: 25 January, 2015, 10:19

L	icensina	others	designs?	)
=		010.0	_ u_u_u_u_u

Posted by fiddy - 2005/05/28 04:16

Something that came to mind as I've been looking for accessories to put in my DF sci-fi terrain. I've seen a lot of posts from people that use Ainsty and Grendel items to flesh things out, but as they are made in the UK there's a hefty fee to get them here in the US (in addition to them not being pre-painted). Has Dwarven Forge thought of licensing the designs of one of those companies for production in the US?

I apologize in advance if this question steps on any toes. I'm relatively new here.

Licensing others designs? Posted by MightyZug - 2005/05/31 08:56

Good Idea.

I for one am desperately trying to throw money at my Sci-Fi terrain collection.

I'm having to scrounge off Ebay and the like.

I'd rather just order straight up but some of these pieces don't exist or don't have a distribution channel to my local stores.

There is definitely demand for more Sci-Fi stuff.

Licensing others designs?

Posted by Ghenghis Ska - 2005/05/31 16:06

Yes, i look at the Fantasy Sets and see cool scenery and the like from so many companies, then i look at my Sci-fi and it's so blank, i have filled it in some what with as much as i could it is so empty, if nothing else if DF came out with a good Sci-fi Accesory pack i would grab it in a minute, i need good beds, chairs, tables, computer consules, Anything that looks like it is sci fi, i don't wabt to drop a wodden table down in the ceneter of my Death Star, it just looks so Wrong. I just spent, well alot, of money ordering from Anitsty becaase they have a new line of Scenery comming out called Base Camp it is the stuff that we see in so many Fantasy sets but in the Sci Fi way, i would buy more if DF made it, and from DF beause, yeah i wouldn't have to pay an extra 30% on shipping! But as it is the stuff looked good, and i want it to make my layouts look better, once you take the plunge into terrain it just looks so poor with out stuff in it...

PS more wall	S!
--------------	----