

Circular Walls for larger rooms?

Posted by whitewind - 2005/07/24 17:57

Hi I would like to know if you plan on making larger radius walls for a circular room. I have seen interest in a 4" section " Like your Cavern Curve wall " But I would even like to see a 6 or maybe even 8" section to make towers. Now I know that these would have to be cut so that internal walls could be added. I can send a rough drawing of how I picture this if you like....? Thanks much for the read.... Hungry in Houston.

oh yes! that would be good to know. thats what i am really missing in my mm universe (besides walls with windows, double doors and floor pieces that are roughly cut in half to build wholes in the floor). i allreday have one of the curved pw on my desk and it is just a matter of days till i take the dremel and start the transformation to a large round corner, but i would really prefer to buy something like a new advanced builder set.

but with so much excellent stuff in the pipelines is there time for something small like this?

do you want to save that lonely curved pw before the mad guy with his dremel is forcing it to be something completely different?

if think i did not really get him but maybe that thread got lost in the doe frenzy - at least we know that it could be included in the shipment due to arrive next march (!?) but my stomach tells me that this could also be some new sf piece...so i think i get rid of the cards and make some drawings where i want to cut that small helpless curved pw with a into pieces!!!!

(maybe a more brutal description helps)

Curved PW?

And Man... We Have Been Asking For Such a Piece, A Round Section with Perhaps a 6" Footprint for a Very Long Time Now... DF has Yet to Comment on this... I'm beginning to think that I am Invisible to DF Staff.....

I think they veiw these like once or twice a week, then have a pow wow when they can get together the proper people to answer the question. Then they answer. So I'll wait to hear fromt them still. LOL, I thought this was maybe them but I am glad for the company while I wait...

Sorry...we have no plans to make bigger, circular walls. We MAY someday make a tower set or something like that which would have some larger circular walls...perhaps.

Sorry...

I'm inclined to think a tower set would do very well -- but, then, see how other things work out first. An expansion for the underground lake or DoE set might be a better idea, if they do as well as they should, than a tower set. The problem with a tower set, or any large curved wall set, is that it is pretty close to the Ogre's Den set, which I get the impression didn't do as well. It's just not as flexible, can't be put to as many uses.

Still, towers are popular, and large round rooms are just about the only thing you can't do with DF at hte moment. Filling that gap would be nice...

unfortunately i have a go, would rather buy the advanced builder set 3 or the tower in a box set... now i just have to find a few more curved pw. i ordered the last one at the shop in hamburg, think i will try to order the remaining 3 in france.

iÃ,Â'll keep you posted how my round room projekt will develope....

thanks admin for the info & a nice day to all of you!
