It doesn't show any new elements, since (duh) we've seen them all already, but there's a new configuration of the MBS expansion set in the ad in the latest issue of Dragon mag. (can't recall the #, but it's the April issue, with a modron on the cover and the Mad magazine phrase "What, me worry?" on it)

It really shows off the new capabilities -- there's a great balcony, seamless, and also a great shot of the columns alongside the fireplace. When you see them together like that, any reservations you may have about the non-wooden columns will go away -- they look great! I mean, I want wooden beams, too, just to complete the look of the set, but trust me, these look really neat. And it is cool that so many of these pieces will work so well in regular dungeon settings...

Anyway, great ad, great shots, looking forward to next month at this time!!!

New pic of MBS set in new Dragon! Posted by Kradlo - 2007/03/22 15:17
I got my issue of The Dragon yesterday, and I loved the MBS pics.
Plus, the issue had modrons! C'mon, how cool can you get?
I think I'm going to sculpt a modron or three. I'm checking eBay for watch gears to use. The Planescape illustrations by Tony DiTerlizzi were always fun!
