Generated: 12 March, 2014, 06:42 Gaming coins kickstarter Posted by hmdrake - 2013/09/05 06:31 I'm planning on using these at my gaming table along with my game tiles, thought others might like em as well. http://www.kickstarter.com/projects/cggames/the-best-damn-metal-gaming-coins-ever Re:Gaming coins kickstarter Posted by Harneloot - 2013/09/05 08:36 Like em! Thanks for posting! Re:Gaming coins kickstarter Posted by dandare - 2013/09/05 16:43 These look excellent. $100 +$30 International is such a good offer. I am in! Re:Gaming coins kickstarter Posted by hmdrake - 2013/09/05 17:10 No prob. Always happy to share a good project, just as I always love when someone else shares one. Re:Gaming coins kickstarter Posted by Stefan - 2013/09/05 17:36 I'm in! But please buy your Pokorny paints first:)

Re:Gaming coins kickstarter Posted by LordDust - 2013/09/06 00:43 I am considering this one, but there are a couple big kickstarters coming at the end of this year/early next that I am already lining up the funds for... decisions, decisions... Re:Gaming coins kickstarter Posted by VladTaltos - 2013/09/06 08:05 Hello everyone. I have used Campaign Coins now for about 4 years now and they are beautiful. Although I have a lot of them, the problem is its not enough. Totally awesome for low levels, who doesn't want to really receive a pouch of coins for a successful pick pocket. At high levels even with platinum pieces its difficult to make the transactions because the players have most of the coins. So they always have to make change for me and here is the problem. These coins in the kickstarter do not have denominations on them so you need 2000 actual plat pieces for that dragon hoard because who is going to buy or 20000 actual gold coins sets to get 20000 of that one size coin. With the different sizes one could say the small ones are 1 gold the med 10 gold the large 100 gold but trying to manage that at the table at med to high levels without the number on the coin will confuse players and become tiresome. Don't get me wrong I am going to back this kickstarter because some new coins will surprise my friends and the themes they have would be great for when they visit exotic lands. Just a few thoughts and I hope it helps. Re:Gaming coins kickstarter Posted by Frog - 2013/09/06 09:35 These do seem like a good deal. $100 for 505 coins is a much better deal than 121 for $80 (Campaign Coins Starter Set).

Miniature Building Authority. They're doing a kickstarter for a new modular castle set. Got any info on Bones round two? Or is it just a guess that it will be early next year?

They announced it for fall at Gencon. Re:Gaming coins kickstarter Posted by hmdrake - 2013/09/11 01:33 Kickstarter freaked out over the "more than 10 sets" thing, so if you have a pledge level over $100, it needs to be adjusted to $100 with the rest as overpledge. Re:Gaming coins kickstarter Posted by nielsene - 2013/09/11 09:21 Its not too surprising that KS acted when they noticed -- they did the some thing in the DF kickstarter, but in DF's case I think they caught it before it represented a lot of pledges and well before the final 48 hours. I think the lesson for other similar projects is to have better product differentiation. I don't think the coins people thought that people would buy vast quantities for RPG, they thought people would pick one or two sets for their favorite board game.... In the case of the coins, had they done something like: "Board Gamer Set" which was their current offering and a "Role Player Set" which was roughly the equivalent of 5 sets (possibly listing a different canonical distribution of coins, but still swappable to match). Then they still could have offered the up to 10 copies of each and I don't think KS would have complained.

In DF's, I think it would have been easier to do a "sampler" which was a single set, and then just call the two set level a "dungeon set" or whatever, seeing how that's where the stretch rewards started it again would have seem safe to KS, I think. Of course that might cause problems for people who wanted 3 or 5 sets....

Went in for a $100. I am a coin collecter at heart and hence was a sucker for the history behind many of the coins.

Plus they can also replace my tattered poker chips.

Probably the best way is to use the two largest coins to represent multiples of the smaller coins. My own game uses copper, silver and gold so the largest two coins will represent ten gold and a hundred gold.

Sadly missed this one!

For those who also missed this one, GOOD NEWS sent them an email, requesting to be put on the email....

once production is done (Next month) they will advise you of what you aere looking for!

I think this is awesome for D&D!

My idea around this was... $100 pack and work with denominators:

Coin Size

Tiny= 1g Small= 10a Medium= 100a Large= 1000g Jumbo = 10 000g

Looking at D&D Next ingame (last packet) prices i fealt that the above would work out just fine.... not to much clutter of coins still has a feel of real coins ingame AND ofcourse the DM controls exactly what is given out - PC's cant cheat their funds :D

Silver pieces etc are like pocket money written in they char sheets used for inns etc etc

mint their own.

I also went in for 10 coin sets. They will work well for my games, and the time traveler set in particular will be an awesome display item.
Re:Gaming coins kickstarter Posted by Stefan - 2013/09/14 13:17 depending on what i decidea very hard decision indeedi should be getting 2000-2500 coins! gotta see what the final designs look like:)
I am thinking to keep it at just 3 types of coinscopper, silver, gold, so i can have more coins of any given typemaybe some of the coins marked with numbers to represent 10X a gold piece for truly monty haul finds my Gaming Table will never be the same!
Re:Gaming coins kickstarter Posted by Stefan - 2013/09/14 13:18
btwI really hope they calculated shipping chargesthe coins seemed heavyshipping was included so I am sort of scared for them
Re:Gaming coins kickstarter Posted by Harneloot - 2013/09/14 14:52
I am in for 20 sets and while I love all the different designs, I am thinking perhaps only going with the extended doubloon set with the Roman Numeral markings for denominations of 1, 5, 10, 50, and 100gp.
Re:Gaming coins kickstarter Posted by Bossman - 2013/09/14 15:06
I don't think I can help but to get as much variety as possible. I like to think treasure hoards would be represented by an array of ancient coins as well as the coins used by the various civilisations that may ## Generated: 12 March, 2014, 06:42 Decisions....decisions... ______ Re:Gaming coins kickstarter Posted by dice4hire - 2013/09/15 04:06 At least half of my ten will be the new doubloons. Re:Gaming coins kickstarter Posted by hmdrake - 2013/09/17 23:40 Shipping came up early on, and yeah, since the sizes of the sets didn't really change much, they're good. $10 a set was 1.6x their manufacture+shipping. I went in at 60 sets. If you didn't get in, email him, and pay close attention, because the final window will be super short. Re:Gaming coins kickstarter Posted by Harneloot - 2013/09/18 11:41 WOW! 60 sets is a boat load of coins!! ANy idea what your set breakdown will be?
